In his speech to the committee last week Gov. Smith appealed for an intensive campaign. He said it was vital that the executive branch of the New York State government be retained in the hands of the Democrats, and warned against permitting the State campaign to be absorbed by the drive to make him President.

The governor is so keenly interested in the New York situation, believing that success at the polls not only is important from the standpoint of his own candidacy, but for the continuance of the policies he has championed as the State's chief executive, that he is planning to attend the Democratic State convention at Rochester the first two days of October. Rescued Atlantic Airman Not Sure Greater Rockford Withstood Winds.

RADIOS GREETING HOME

New York, Sept. 3 (A.P.).—The New York Times will say tomorrow that Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, pilote of the sirplane. Greater Rockford, forced down in Greenland August 19, and who were rescued yesterday by members of the University of Michigan Greenland expedition, were still at Mount Evans. Southern Greenland, headquarters of the expedition, today. Wireless communication with this remote spot on the edge of the Arctic circle was extremely difficult tonight and subject to constant interruption due to atmospheric conditions.

Hassell, however, was able to send brief messages through the wireless station of the New York Times, to his flight in Rockford, Ill., in which he said:

flight in Rockford, Ill., in which he said:

"Our ship is located about 100 miles from the base on inland ice. The ship was undamaged when we left, but heavy winds followed in the evening after landing and it is doubtful whether the ship is O. K. yet."

Hassell expressed doubt as to whether he should stay in Greenland and make an effort to bring the Greater Rockford back, or leave it there to be salvaged by Prof. William H. Hobbs, head of the University of Michigan expedition. The aviator referred the problem to the committee of his backers in Rockford for their advice and thanked them for the efforts they had made in behalf of him and Cramer. His early return to the United States was indicated in an inquiry about boat connections.

The aviator sent a message of thanks to his "little friends of Illinois Cottage" for their radiogram. He also sent renewed greeting to Mrs. Hassell and expressed the hope that he soon would see his wife and children.

The cardinal and his suite occupied a dais in the center of the main hall. As the representative of the head of the Catholic Church thousands of its members seized the opportunity to pass before him.

The visitors generally have been delighted with the heartiness of the welcome accorded by the populace. Mgr. Clifford, of Los Angeles, said today that he considered the most striking feature of the dedication ceremonies yesterday of St. Mary's Cathedral was the magnificent, broad-minded speech, complimenting the work of the Catholics, made by Premier T. R. Davis of New South Wales. The premier is the son of a methodist minister and is himself a leading Methodist layman. It was announced today that the next Eucharistic Congress will be held at Carthage in North Africa.

"At the same time I recognize that conditions respecting the observance of the law are far from satisfactory and time may prove the necessity for some adjustments. If so, I am for having those adjustments brought about by an executive in sympathy with the economic benefits that the closest possible adherence to the prohibition idea is sure to bring about.

"It seems to me, therefore, that we should ask ourselves whether this or any other problem is likely to be any more constructively handled under a change in administration. I see nothing to justify any change. Therefore I am for Mr. Hoover and always have been."

wine-producing countries of Southern Europe and the Nordic lands of Finland and Sweden.

The issue was brought to the fore with a proposal by Finland, Sweden and Poland that the league undertake an investigation aimed at checking the abuse of alcohol. The veteran Hungarian statesman, Count Albert Apponyl, immediately moved that the proposal be sent to the assembly committee which deals with social problems, his hope was that thereby he would have alcoholism as a social evil whereas if left to the committee on technical questions it would be treated merely from the standpoint of producers and traders.

A general debate followed in which the lines between the "dry" countries and their "wet" neighbors were made fairly distinct. Most prominent among the antiliquor advocates was H. J. Procope, foreign minister of Finland and president of the league council, who told the assembly that Finland was striving for an international convention on the subject as a means of fighting smuggling and cross-border bootlegging of intoxicants.

He stated his case after the debate to newspaper men with the accompany-

Surrender in 30 Days

Mañagua, Nicaragua, Sept. 3 (A.P.).
During the past 30 days, it was announced tonight, 580 Nicaraguans, formerly engaged in depredations or enrolled as potential members of the Sandino forces, have surrendered to marines in the northern area in the vicinity of Ocotal. The total for the last three months of those who had surrendered is 1,672.

Except for a few who were known to have been operating against the Marines, all have been granted amnesty after being registered and having their fingerprints taken. Marine officers believe that these persons now are willing to engage in peaceful pursuits even though summoned by Sandino to resume depredations.

The assembly during its afternoon session showed its appreciation of the participation of Premier MacKenzie King by electing him a vice president. Other vice presidents chosen were Herman Mueller, chancellor of Germany; Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France; Lord Cushendun, acting foreign minister of Great Britain; Ambassador Adachi of Japan, and Chancellor Seipel, of Austria.

The new China came forward with a claim for immediate reelection as a member of the council, believing "unified, modernized China" is entitled regularly to one of the Asiatic seats of the council. The Persian delegates also announced their candidacy for membership in the council.

President and Mrs. Coolidge spent a very subdued Labor Day at Cedar Island Lodge.

John Coolidge had made reservations on a train tonight to carry him job hunting in the great Eastern cities, whence so many offers of employment had reached him since it became known that he was looking for employment. The boy looked forward to his departure with all the eagerness of great expectations; his parents, howeveg, thought more of the severance of family ties and of what the future would hold for the youth upon whom, especially since the death of their only other son, all their hopes and fondness had been centered.

SUNLIGHT CURE OF RICKETS.

A T this season of the year the sunlight is of a better quality than at some other seasons. This statement refers to its power to prevent and to cure rickets. Entirely independent of quality and duration of light and the presence or absence of clouds and fogs, sunlight has the maximum effectiveness in summer time. This was proved by Drs. Brown and Tisdall in the following manner:

Beginning with the first of the year and running through all of the seasons, batches of rats were exposed to such light as there was every day from 11 to 1 o'clock. A control batch of the same size was kept indoors under circumstances that were similar except as to light. A new batch of rats was exposed to light each, week. The length of the exposure of each batch was one month. After one month of exposure the animals in the batch and the controls were examined as to evidence of rickets or any other condition bearing on health. The diet given all the animals was one that made for rickets. The point to be decided was: How much power to prevent rickets has two hours of sunlight daily for one month and how does this power vary during the year?

TAKING PAINS WITH THE

SHAMPOO. F a woman's hair is her crowning glory, and we have it on good au thority that it is, then we may safely assume that her neglect of it is her crowning offense against beauty.

Hair cleanliness is as essential as skin cleanliness. The shampoo and the delly cleansing of the complexion are two things that can not be rushed. Both take time and infinite pains. For two things that can not be rushed. Both take time and infinite pains. For those who are not altogether certain as to whether they are doing something wrong or omitting something important, I offer the following suggestions:

First, the soap. A cake of soap, any kind of soap, should never be rubbed on the hair. The soap (tar or castile are, I think, the best), should be shaved and made into a jelly by dissolving the shavings in hot water and allowing the solution to cool. A cake of soap made into this form of shampoo will serve for several washings.

If nothing but hard water is available, a little borax or lemon-juice may be added to it. It is well to rinse the hair once with clear water to remove the surface dust before using the soap. After this comes the soap jelly rubbed briskly into the scalp with the finger tips. Watch the edges of the hair. If the soil is hard to remove, resort to a nailbrush.

Now comes the rinsing—in hot water.

the soil is hard to remove, resort to a nailbrush.

Now comes the rinsing—in hot water, and lots of it. The hair should be rinsed several times. Dry it? Not yet. Shampoo it a second time or even a third. There lies the secret of true hair and scalp cleanliness and health. The last rinsing should be in warm water, not hot. I know that some women use cold water for this rinsing with the idea that it will prevent taking cold. I think this is an error. There is no reason for taking cold if the hair is thoroughly and properly dried. After the hair has had its final rinsing it should be wrung out and a dried. After the hair has had its final rinsing it should be wrung out and a warmed towel wrapped around the head. The hair should be rubbed with the towel until most of the moisture has been absorbed. With another warmed towel, the hair should then be dried in sections. If a hair tonic is being used, the best time to apply it is while the hair is still damp after the shampoo. While the hair is drying is an excellent time for a good massage, also. (Copyright, 1928.)

Holland is a great country for dairly farming. You see cows almost anywhere when you go beyond the limits of a city. The milk is turned into butter and cheese, much of which is shipped to England.

The chief coin of the country is the guilder. It is made of silver, and has a value of about 40 cents. There is a tiny silver coin here which is the smallest I have ever seen. It is less than half the size of a dime, and its value is 4 cents in our money.

I am shortly setting out for Volendam, a town on the coast of the Zuider Zee, where I am told that the people wear wooden shoes and odd costumes in general. I shall tell you about it in my next letter.

The problem is not as complex as M. D. suggests in her last paragraph. BASIS OF PROSPERITY.

The Democratic party has promised. if it is put in power, that it will avoid making such tariff changes as would destroy prosperity or reduce the present high standard of wages. Gov. Smith has given the assurance that he and his party will not advocate any sudden or drastic revolution in our economic system which would cause business upheaval and popular distress. The Democratic party stands squarely for the maintenance of legitimate business and a high standard of wages for American labor."

Inasmuch as legitimate business and a high standard of wages depend upon the protective tariff the Democratic party does well to cut away entirely from its past. Nothing is to be gained by catering to the minority in the Democratic party that still opposes full tariff protection to American industry and labor. The Solid South wants protection. The Smith strongholds in the East want protection. The political battleground in the Middle West wants protection and the Pacific Coast wants protection. If any of these sections should doubt the intention of the Democratic party to uphold the protective tar.ff policy the result would be a smaller vote than that party is entitled to receive in November.

Protection is now an American policy. not a party policy. It is the tried and tested foundation of prosperity and high wages. No Democrat wishes to work for lower wages for the sake of putting into effect any policy whatever. He is just as vitally interested in national prosperity as any Republican can be. If a Democrat finds his occupation gone as a result of admitting cheap competitive goods from abroad he gets no consolation in the thought that his party has tried to reduce the cost of living. Being no longer a producer, his ability to purchase even cheap goods is suspended until he can find work. Give him permanent employment at high wages and he will help to produce goods in such volume that they will be cheap.

The Democratic pledge to eliminate tariff favoritism is good. No industry or section is entitled to discriminatory tariff favors or advantages. All are entitled to equal protection against outside competition. If any industry or section is now unprotected by the tariff, both presidential candidates should pledge themselves and their parties to righting the situation. Farm products that are not sufficiently protected are entitled to a square deal in the forthcoming tariff legislation. The desire of any element to bring in cheap foodstuffs' from abroad at the expense of the American farmer should be ignored. The farmer is entitled to the home market, and if he is prosperous he will produce food in such volume that, when efficiently distributed, it will be cheap.

There should be no hesitation by either party in declaring for the adequate tariff protection of every commodity that is subject to foreign competition. America has prospered by developing its own resources. It can not prosper if it shuts up its factories and sends its money abroad for foreign goods. The tariff should be raised on many commodities, and it is as much the duty of the Democratic party to increase these rates as it is the duty of the Republican party to do so. The candidate who makes it most clear that his party will absolutely protect all American industry and labor. including agriculture, is the one who will appeal best to the voters, who are all plain Americans anxious to keep themselves and the country prosperous and at work.

FIGHTING EROSION.

Gully erosion is the tendency of rains to eat away the banks of streams, causing them to cave in until the amount of land les: gravely reduces the worth of a farm. Even more serious are the "sheet" erosions, along a slope or hillside. Such a slide often carries away acres of surface soil, leaving behind only barren subsoil. Throughout the Middle West and the Far West, in all the great farming States, erosion is changing the surface of the soil, and counts heavily against the asset side of the farm. Fertile lands worth millions are thereby ruined. It is due to modern farm science that measures have been adopted to save losses from this source. Hay, alfalfa and other crops are now planted to hold soil which shows erosion tendencies, and the waters which would other wise concentrate for their work of destruction are scattered. In this single item alone, the farmers may be saved millions of dollars of damage to their acreage

Another method of fighting erosion is the adoption of one of the earliest practices of ancient peoples; that is, the terracing of uplands, so that the sheer descent of the hillside is broken by levels making absorption of the rainfall easier, guiding the surplus away, and progress of American farming is marked in no other manner so clearly as in the saving of farm soil by intensive measures.

POLICE OFFENDERS.

Maj. Hesse means business when he says that the rules obtaining in the Police Department will be made more stringent and that hereafter dismissal will follow all cases of drunkenness and repeated and chronic offenses in any particular. It is bad to have on the force worthless men, and equally bad to have weak ones. Henceforth the principle of make good or quit, that followed in business generally, will be applicable to the police of the Members of the force will do well to weigh carefully Maj. Hesse's stern announcement. Washington is fortunate that it has not come into the grip of bootleggers and criminals whose sinister rule has been so startlingly evidenced in the exposures in Chicago and Philadelphia. The czardom of crime revealed in the latter city should be a warning to police departments generally, for impairment of police morale is apt to be a prelude to a debauch of the force by the agents of crime who are ever alert to bend a supple policeman to their pur-

Rigid application of the penalties announced by Maj. Hesse will soon disclose whether there is any reason for grave concern. It is to be hoped that indifferent or worthless men upon the force can be spotted and removed forthwith. Their removal will do much to stiffen general police morale.

The Police Department of Washington holds a measure of responsibility to the entire ountry. It is important that the name of Washington be kept unsmirched at this time when lapses in police administration are felt severely and when the suspicion of vice collusion is apt to be created upon slight foundation. Maj. Hesse has issued his warning. The department, with few exceptions, will approve his stand. Those who do not will find that condonation of their infractions of discipline will be scant.

DEVICES OF THE WICKED.

Despite the fact that since the days of Solomon warning has been issued against the man who "brings wicked devices to pass," the slick gentlemen who win out by a combination of fraud and plausibility manage to sequester the honest money of their more or less artless fellows. Experts in criminal detection have been flattering themselves that they have reduced the methods of criminals to a system, based upon the principle that the more intelligent the type of criminal the more addicted he is to operating according to his own particular methods. Nevertheless, there is as much in ventive talent active in the confidence game as in any legitimate sphere. A criminal detector must be a psychologist, a sociologist, a financial expert, a mechanic and much else in order to keep abreast of the men who have reduced sinning against their fellows to a cago because of its gunmen record, the gentlemen who carry on their operations by the slick method have been treating the country to a variation of their particular craft. They have left a wake of enormous losses among highpowered bankers and brokers of Boston, and most unfortunately, they have extracted-not painlessly, however-large sums from eminent educators. College professors who have acquired independent means or are fortunately endowed should be warned to be upon the watch for men who are adept in writing upon stolen letterheads and in presenting bogus land certificates and mortgages as an opportunity for changing slow-coach investments in to get-rich-quick schemes.

No honest man is sharp enough to outwit every rogue, and college professors can receive instruction as well as impart it. But it is costly to learn something of the science of fraud from an expert.

BRAVE PIONEERS.

The world rejoices that Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, pilots of the monoplane Greater Rockford, are safe. On August 16 they set out from Rockford, Ill., for Stockholm, Sweden, in an attempt to pioneer a short air route between the United States and the Scandinavian countries. The first leg of the hop, to Cochrane, Ontario, was made without a hitch. On August 18 they started for Mount Evans, Greenland, 1,600 miles away. That evening they were reported as over Apiskigamish Lake, and from that point on they were unsighted. As the days passed by the world became certain that Hassell and Cramer had perished.

It now develops that storms drove them from their course and that with gasoline exhausted they were forced to bring the Greater Rockford down only some 50 miles short of its goal. The plane was undamaged and the two fliers immediately began their long trek back to civilization. Plodding steadily forward first over the crevassed ice surface and then through wild, unexplored country, subsisting upon a pemmican ration of 8 ounces a day. they finally reached a position opposite Camp Lloyd, where the Michigan Greenland expedition is conducting researches in Arctic meteor ology. There they lighted smoke signals, attracting the attention of members of the expedition, who brought them back to civiliza-

Hassell and Cramer were spared miraculously. The conditions that they faced were such as might easily have caused a tragedy.

That they were able to bring the Greater Rockford safely to earth in wild, unsettled territory, without aid from the motors, is tribute to their airmanship. That the landing was necessary only 50 miles short of the des tination, however, proves that the success of flights such as theirs, in present-day ships, is due largely to the fact that a too small margin of safety luckily proved sufficient.

Some day the frigid North will be spiderwebbed with a network of commercial air lines linking the United States with Scandinavian countries. Whether the Greater Rockford reaches Stockholm or not, to Hassell and Cramer belongs the honor of having pioneered the route.

SAFEGUARD THE SPEEDWAY.

No further proof is needed that effective guard rails should be placed around the Speedway. Saturday afternoon an automobile in the hands of an inexperienced driver got out of control, careened across the stretch of grass that separates the roadway from the sea wall, and plunged over, earrying three persons to their death. This is not the first time that an automobile has gone over this wall, and unless a heavy guard rail is put in position it will not be the last.

The Washington Monument once was a somewhat similar danger point. The sills of its windows are shoulder high and the possibility of persons falling out was most remote. Persons did fall, or jump, out, however, and it was not until several tragedies had occurred that the windows were covered with heavy grating. The Speedway is an even greater danger spot. Only at the point is there a guard rail and it is not stanchly enough constructed to restrain an automobile. Elsewhere around the driveway that is crowded to its full capacity every pleasant evening, there is little or nothing to prevent an automobile that has got out of control from plunging into the Potomac.

The tragedy that took place Saturday afternoon has created widespread sympathy. Here were four people, pleasure bent, three of whom were drowned under most unusual circumstances, the fourth of whom undoubtedly never will be able to strike the terrifying incident from his mind. No time should be lost in setting adequate safeguards against repetition of

A NEW ALPHABET.

Long dismissed as the originators of writing, the Phoenicians, traders rather than a people of literary accomplishment, had definite reasons for reducing communication to written form with a fixed alphabet at the base of their writing. They doubtless made no discoveries in regard to the reduction of vocal sounds to the form of set symbols, as this would have needed rather to be a growth than a discovery, but they long have been accorded credit for being the originators of the alphabet in use today.

Now, there has been discovered a rude alphabet that differs from the Phoenician type of letters and that can not be identified with the mysterious runes whose deciphering is a moot question among archeologists. Prof. W. Gordon Childe, of Edinburgh University, during his excavation of the prehistoric village of Skara Brae in the Orkney Islands, has found an inscription in an unknown alphabet. Together with other finds in the excavations this is regarded as one of the most important archeological developments in western Europe in recent years.

The users of the alphabet evidently were not visitants to the Orkneys, not the passing tradesmen of Phoenicia, but settled residents, as the inscription was found in association with evidences of settled worship and domicile. A strange picture has been revived by the investigators of a village, the inhabitants of which had been forced to flee, leaving behind wreckage and filth, the foulness of which has been accentuated rather than reduced by the years. The description centers about a great over a grave, evidently that of victims of human sacrifice. The stone bears a strange inscription, which is not made up of runes, but a kind of script heretofore wholly unknown. If it could be deciphered it would doubtless tell the story of the gruesome relics of a people passed out of knowledge and preved upon by wasters.

The Orkney Islands are rich in archeological memorials, but an alphabet that appears to have been derived independently of the line of descent by which that of the Phoenicians became crystallized into the roman letters of today has archeological and etymological significance that will prove stimulating to scientists and scholars.

In the meantime the people of Zogu's realm are all agog as the prospective brides are named and they see their little mountain state, always a potent factor in Balkan politics, likely to be linked to one or another important house. Increase the Penalty. To the Editor of The Post-Sir: If understand it aright the traffic director favors lighter punishments for traffic offenders. That might work well, perhaps, for those guilty of lighter offenses, such as overtime parking, but drunken drivers, and especially for the hit-and-run man. A prominent warden once said to me that judges were largely responsible for the failure of imprisonment working reform. He said that judges were too often influenced by the youth of the offender, and made the punishment as light as possible; that the sentence was just long enough not long enough to make him shun another term by walking in straight lines with the law. Most, if not all reckless drivers care nothing for a small fine. With them it is a delight to show contempt for the traffic regulations no matter how much they endanger the lives of others. The driver who will collide with a pedestrian, or with another machine, and then run is a criminal at heart, and should be punished as a criminal. Eighteen Million / Telephones/

"In 1907 there were about 6,000,000 telephones in the United States, but they were only partially interconnected, while today there are over 18,000,000 telephones in the United States so interconnected that it is possible for practically any one of the 18,000,000 to be connected with reasonable promptness with any other one of the 18,000,000 * * * "

> WALTER S. GIFFORD, President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company
> (Bell System)

Q There are now over 18,000,000 telephones in and connected with the Bell System in the United States. And it has been less than the span of a lifetime since the telephone first talked.

Q It started with one man, a set of crude instruments, and a vision of a great service that might be given if the way could be found. That was all.

Q The way was found and today, instead of two telephone workers - the inventor and his assistant - and two telephone instruments, 374,000 men and women and 18,000,000 telephones make possible a service-a continuous service-used more than 73,000,000 times each day, saving time and money and bringing comfort and convenience to millions of people. A service within the reach of anyone, anywhere!

Q Today, there is one telephone for every seven persons in the United States and there is scarcely a hamlet without the service. The nation is made one neighborhood for you through your telephone.

Q The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company with more than 145,000 telephones in the District of Columbia, is one of the associate companies of this nation-wide system. Its policy is the same-to give you a quick, dependable and reasonably priced telephone service. To that end we are bending every energy.

Costello Moves to Help Republicans Who Will Vote for Ticket.

TWO MEETINGS CALLED

The word "Democratic" has been liminated from the various Smith-Robinson clubs here, it was announced yesterday by John F. Costello, Democratic national committeeman for the District. This has been done, Costello said, out of courtesy to the Republi-cans who want to vote for Gov. Smith, but who do not necessarily want to leave the Republican party permanently.

Committeeman Costello said that a large number of Republicans who have votes in the various States have been calling at Democratic headquarters at No. 16 Jackson place northwest, and promising to support the Smith-Robinson ticket.

Two Meetings Called.

But many of these, he said, have made it very plain that they have no intention of definitely joining the Democratic party.

Henceforth, Costello said, the Smith-Robinson Demochatic Club will be simply the Smith-Robinson Club, the Young People's Smith-Robinson Democratic Club will be the Young People's Smith-Robinson Club, and so on.
Two important pemocratic meetings. Two important Democratic meetings ill be held at 16 Jackson place to-

One of them will bring together the members of the Democratic central committee, and the other will be for the purpose of outlining a plan of campaign for the women workers in the party here.

The latter meeting has been called by Mrs. Charles F. Taylor who recently was named chairman in charge of wo-men's activities in the local Smith-Robinson Clubs here. The appointment was made by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, on the recommen-dation of National Committeeman Cos-tello and National Committeewoman J Borden Harriman.

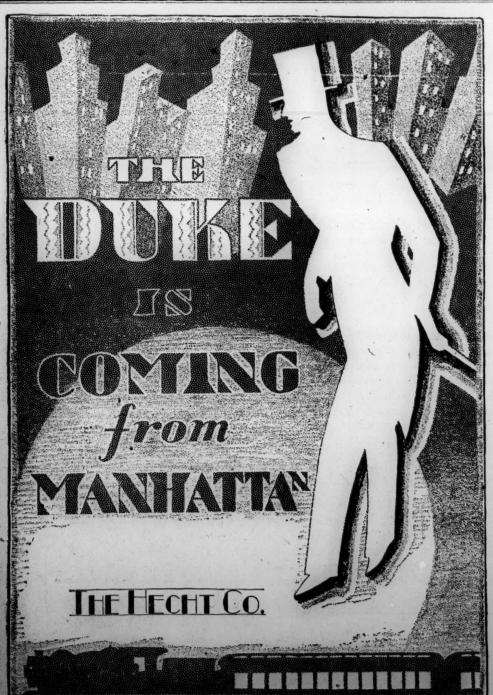

Borden Harriman.
Two groups of war veterans will organize clubs here this week, it was a announced yesterday. The Woodrow Wilson Smith-Robinson Veterans Club will start off with an approximate membership of 50, and the Helienic Smith-Robinson Veterans' Club with a membership of 100 local Greeks. Borden Harriman.

SIMMONS' BOLT AIDS 5-Year-Old Son Shoots Mother, Who May D G. O. P. IN CAROLINA

There as Democrats Gain in Tennessee.

STAHLMAN OUT FOR SMITH

By CARLISLE BARGERON

With Senator Simmons' moral if not somewhat active support of the Hoover cause in North Carolina, there are indications that the Republicans are coming to look more cheerfully upon that State than they are at Tennessee. This latter border State which the anti-This latter border state which the anti-Smith Democrats would never concede the governor in the preconvention cam-paign and which along with Kentucky seemed to be Hoover's only avenue into the South has recently pulled its Dem-ocratic self together to the extent that the Democrats are getting right cocky about it.

the Democrats are getting right cocky about it.

Senator Simmons' statement that he would not vote for Smith has admittedly given the Democrats considerable cause for worry in North Carolina. It had been known for sometime that he would take no active part in the Smith campaign but now he has, in effect, passed out the word to his followers, and they are legion, that they would be justified in not voting for the Democratic nominee. With this much said it is quite likely that he will have more to say. The Democratic leaders have given up hope of having him keep his geace.

But in Tennessee the only hope that the Republicans seem to have now is

But in Tennessee the only hope that the Republicans seem to have now is the disorganized opposition to the gov-ernor on prohibition and religious grounds. Their party organization is split and the Democrats are presenting split and the Democrats are presenting a united front.

The Nashville Banner, published by Maj. E. J. Stahlman, old school journalist and an independent influence in the State's rather stormy politics, has come out for Smith. Maj. Stahlman's followers constitute about the balance of power in the States when the regular alignments are normal. He was a warm supporter of the defeated gubernatorial candidate in the primary, but just as warm for the successful candidacy of Senator McKellar in the senatorial race. Apparently McKellar's victory was enough for him to decide to support the Democratic ticket. The State is normally Democratic by from 30,000 to 40,000 votes. Harding carried it in 1920, when State conditions were most abnormal. It returned to the most abnormal. It returned to the Democratic fold in 1924.

There is said to be another factor operating against the Republicans and that is that their greatest normal strength lies in the eastern or mountainous section of the State where the "moonshine" industry has thrived for years. The belief is that Smith's wet appeal will strike into this section.

There is, of course, the native opposition to Smith in Tennessee, that is the religious prejudice and the dry opposition, and undoubtedly the Republicans are counting strongly on this. But opposition to be effective must be organized, and it goes without saying that friction in the Republican ranks presents a handicap in such an organization.

Skin eruptions successfully treated from within

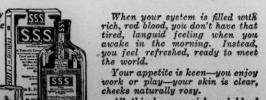

SKILLED physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an ab-normal condition of the system.

This is why so many thous-ands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself and friends to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build rich, red blood—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

In building rich, red blood cells, S.S.S. improves the processes by which the body is nourished.

"I suffered from impure blood —was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look nat-ural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breakingout that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy."— Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. O'Malley's brother, J. L. Sullivan, a policeman on furlough, whose gun the child had used, drove Mrs. O'Malley to a hospital where an emergency operation was performed. Physicians said she has a slight chance to recover.

A wedding celebration was in progress in the home, and Sullivan said that he hid the gun beneath his coat so that none of the children present could find it. When the party broke up Mrs. O'Malley went to get her brother's coat and found her son with the gun pointed.

Corporation Boxing Planned, Declares Rival Promoter.

Hand-Tailored Champions' Sought, Is Wail of Fugazy.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Sept. 3.—Charges that corporation boxing, was caught in the act of attempting to nurse a "hand-tailored champion" into the title vacated by Gene Tunney were made today by Humbert J. Fugazy.

His accusation came on the eve of a scheduled showdown in the office of the New York State Athletic Commission tomorrow, when the ownership of Knute Hansen will be unraveled from a maze of besleging managers' claims, in the background of which looms Fugazy's rival promoter. Tex Rickerd Roberto Roberti, Italian heavyweight, Fugazy declares, is the hobgoblin who frightened away designing manipulators from perpetrating the hoax in the heavyweight ranks. ors from perpetra heavyweight ranks.

"When a group of financiers, holders of stock in a boxing corporation, bid as high as $20,000 for the services of a man of Hansen's known ability, it is quite apparent what is afoot." said Fugazy. "Hansen's contract is not and never was worth such an exorbitant sum, and when I learned that plans were under way to foist this fighter on the fans I induced Roberti to chailenge him for charity."

Rickard today formally denied that he was Hansen's manager, and declared he would accept no fights with Roberti for Hansen. He adwith Robert for Hansen. He admitted "ideaning" money to Billy Gibson to purchase Hansen's contract, and said Hansen owed him $3,000, which he was interested in collecting.

Roberti and the proposal that the tw tight for charity October 12, Rickar at first demurred, but on Saturday h Hansen received a purse

Fugazy countered with a proposition under which Hansen would receive a purse of $20,000 and advised that Ropurse of $20,000 and advised that Roberti was still willing to fight for nothing and then it was that Rickard called everything off. At the same time, Billy Gibson, as Rickard's agent, declared he was not concerned in the Hansen-Roberti matter and did not care to be. So after all, the much-wanted Hansen, who possesses such a fatal lure for corporation officials, among whom was included in the bidding no less a personage than Walter P. Chrysler, is

And there was pubel. Tying Yankees. And there was much sentiment for the Mackmen yesterday as evinced by the actions of the 25,000 during the opening battle.

None of the boos that greeted the Yankees in the recent series were directed toward the Mackmen and it was evident that so far as the Washington public is concerned the Athletics are to be preferred as champlons rather than the haughty Yanks. However, in so far as the Washington Ball Club is concerned, there appeared to be no preference.

Nobody but Hadley was worried when Nobody but Hadley was worried when the Washington pitcher walked the first two men to face him at the start of the opening battle and there actually were cheers after he passed the second, a true gauge of the trend of feeling which bore no animosity toward the Macks. But fickle fandom soon succumbed to Hadley's remarkable feat of the next five minutes when he struck out the next three batters to face him and in a trice the half-hearted allegiance to the Mackmen had disappeared in the wave of enthusiasm over Hadley's consistent good mound work.

To "Sad Sam" Jones will be assigned the task of winning the final game from the Mackmen for a series clean-up in the set which ends at the Griffith Stadium this afternoon. According to the schedule, this is an open date but the Nats are using it to play off a postponed game. Rube Walberg is expected to do the Philadelphia hurling. Following this contest, the Harrismen go to New York for a 5-game set, which starts with a double-header tomorrow.

The 25,000 fans who were attracted to Griffith Stadium by the double-barrield invasion of the marauding men of Mack were torn between two emotions yesterday, but the old home-town spirit finally conquered.

Mr. Mack's merry men returned here in the role of pennant contenders, quite different from the part they played in the American League on the occasion.

Bob Reeves turned in quite a play in the third inning of yesterday's opening game when he stumbled and went down on his knees after taking Bishop's hot roller. He quickly got to his feet and made the out at first on a rifle peg. Bluege followed by pegging out Orwoll while standing almost flatfooted back of third, making a most difficult throw look easy.

Oswalo Orwoll was back at first base for the Mackmen yesterday after a layoff since last Tuesday because of a mild Charley horse attack. He showed no signs of the aliment in his work. With a southpaw working in the second game, Jimmy Dykes was given the assignment.

orwoll almost saw action in this contest, however, as Mack had him warmed up late in the game and would have put him on the pitching slab had occasion arisen whereby it looked wise to send up a pinch-hitter for Rommel. Outfielder Sammy West made one of the best catches seen here in some time starting the Macks' third in the opening clash. He robbed Bing Miller of at least a triple by racing back almost to the wall in deep center to snare a hard drive with a one-hand, over-the-shoulder catch at almost arm's length.

GOSLIN SCORING NATIONALS' FIRST RUN

The Nats' slugging outfielder is shown crossing the plate in the fourth inning of the second game with the team's first run. Goslin was on second when Earnshaw threw into the outfield in an attempt for a force play and Goslin scored easily.

The Mackmen gave the Nats the scare of their lives in the eighth when they scored two runs and had the base loaded with but one out. Braxton seemed to lose his stuff between innings and Dykee greeted him with a double. When Cochrane and Simmons followed with singles, molding one run and putting Cochrane on third, Marberry took the hill and Foxx met one of his offerings for a long sacrifice fly which put the visitors only one behind.

Miller singled simmons to third and the bases were full when Haas coaxed a pass. Collins took Boley's place at the tee and apparently singled, but Bluege rushed over taward short, snared the liner on first-bounce with his gloved hand and shot the ball to Harris who made a snappy peg to Judge for a double-play.

It was a great play all around and most timely, for the tying run was over the plate as the third out was turned in, in the hope of a ninth-inning rally, Mack used French and Cobb as pinchnitters, but Marberry fanned both of them, the third strike which the Georgia Peach missed ending the game with Dykes, who had walked, on first with the tying run.

Neighbors Aver. FOUGHT HARD FOR LIFE pecial to The Washington Post. New York, Sept. 3 .- The nude bo of Harry Prager, 60, found strangled lying on the floor of his apartment in East Pifty-second street today, told a mute story of a double life, with a day-time role of department store worker and nights spent in the gitter of

Department Store Employe

Had Strange Visitors,

and nights spent in the glitter of Broadway.

Prager had been dead twelve hours, according to an assistant medical examiner, when Mrs. August Kamerle, wife of the building superintendent, found the body. The man, whose mame was often whispered among neighbors because of his strange goings on, lay face down on the floor near the bed. He was gagged with a handkerchief and his hands tied behind him with strips torn from a bed sheet. He had been strangled with a piece of his own shirt. The back of the head was badly bruised, and the apartment gave evidence of a terrific struggle, but proved barren of clues.

Robbery was evidently a motive, for there was no money in Prager's clothing nor in the apartment, with the exception of $8 found in a closet. Near the money lay a bank book showing a balance that would leave no financial worries for Prager's later years, had he lived.

Prager had occupied the third floor front apartment for four years. He was discussed by the neighbors because of his late hours and the strange company he kept. All sorts of persons of both sexes were brought to the little apartment, some of the neighbors said, the majority bearing the white light brand.

special to The Washington Post. New York, Sept. 3 .- The nude body of Harry Prager, 60, found strangled lying on the floor of his apartment in East Fifty-second street today, told a mute story of a double life, with a day-time role of department store worker and nights spent in the glitter of Broadway.

and nights spent in the gitter of Broadway.

Prager had been dead twelve hours, according to an assistant medical examiner, when Mrs. August Kamerle, wife of the building superintendent, found the body. The man, whose name was often whispered among neighbors because of his strange goings on, lay face down on the floor near the bed. He was gagged with a handkerchief and his hands tied behind him with strips his hands tied behind him with strips torn from a bed sheet. He had been strangled with a piece of his own shirt. The back of the head was badly bruised, and the apartment gave evidence of a terrific struggle, but proved

Robbery was evidently a motive, for there was no money in Prager's clothing nor in the apartment, with the exception of $8 found in a closet. Near the money lay a bank book showing a balance that would leave no financial worries for Prager's later years, had he lived.

Prager had occupied the third floor front apartment for four years. He was discussed by the neighbors because of his late hours and the strange company he kept. Mattingly Jails One Accused Three Years for Assault and Larceny.

With the prisoners' docks at Police Court filled to overflowing yesterday by one of the largest crowd of defendants this year, Labor Day was celebrated by the judges, attorneys and court attaches after hard work.

An approximate total of 334 cases were heard in the three branches of the court. Judge John P. McMahon, presiding in the District of Columbia branch, heard 134 cases, more than 120 of which were charges of intoxication and disorder. In the majority of these cases, the court levied a $10 fine.

In the traffic branch, Judge Isaac R. Hitt heard a total of 150 cases, while Judge Robert E. Mattingly, in the United States branch, heard a total of 50 cases.

The most severe penalty meted out by Judge Hitt was imposed on Robert P. Green, colored, of 1223 Sixteenth street northeast. He was given 90 days and a $200 fine, or 30 more days, for driving while drunk, a $200 fine or 60 days for "hit-and-run" and a $50 fine or 30 days for driving without a permit.
